But preliminary police investigations reveal the body of the deceased was dumped in the street after the act.

The four suspects were arrested on Monday and they are currently assisting police in their investigations.

Police sources say the deceased went hawking plantain chips in the vicinity but got drunk at the usual drinking spot she frequents.

She was helped into a room in the house that also houses the drinking spot by two siblings living there.

According to reports, the two siblings returned to the room to see the deceased had been raped by one of the arrested suspects and others who are at large.

On the advice of their grandmother, the two siblings dumped the body in the streets when they realized she had passed away few hours after she was raped.
